章节摘录

II. Read the passage and choose the best answer. (5%) The trouble started when Mrs Candy lost control of her car on a mountain road. Her car fell off the mountain into the water forty feet from the road. It rolled over once and landed left side up in the rushing water. Mrs Candy and her two sons were wearing their seatbelts and thick coats. So they were stuck (卡住) . Luckily, nobody was hurt by the fall, but they couldn't get out of the car.

The rescue work started almost at once. Another driver told the police about the trouble. And the police called some rescue workers and a truck to pull the car out. The driver of the truck, Simon, arrived first. Immediately he took a rope from his truck and began to walk through the rushing water to the car. Soon other rescue workers arrived. They put on special suits to stay warm. They brought safety ropes, life jackets and warm blankets. First they pulled the people out of the back window onto the top of the car. Then they swam with each person to the shore. They saved Mrs Candy, and her little boys.
